

- Permanent 0.6 FTE position 24 hours per week.

Mō te tūnga - About the role

We are a small and friendly team who are enthusiastic and want to do things the best way we can. Work-life balance is important to us - some of our people work part-time around family commitments or around private practice.

Working in the hospital setting you get to see more challenging cases and more variety. If you are up for the challenge of complex cases, keeping up with constantly changing technology and gaining an incredibly broad experience - then Christchurch Hospital is the place for you.

We provide a wide range of audiological services including electrophysiological testing, new-born diagnostic hearing tests and testing for balance disorders. We have a close association with the University of Canterbury Audiology program and some of our Audiologists are involved in ongoing research.

Ko wai koe - About You

You'll be responsible for providing and interpreting the complete range of adult and paediatric tests within the audiology service.

To be successful in this role it is essential that you have a Master's degree in Audiology (or an equivalent qualification). It's desirable that you have experience in using a broad range of audiological skills including diagnostic, paediatric and rehabilitative audiology.

The Future of the health industry

The role that you are applying for is one that may only be performed by a person who has been vaccinated against Covid-19. It is therefore a condition of this application that you are vaccinated against Covid-19. As a person working in the health and disability sector you will come into contact with a large number of people, some of whom may be vulnerable. Without a vaccine, there is the risk that you may contract Covid-19. The requirement to be vaccinated is to keep you safe and also to endeavour to protect others against the potential transmission of Covid-19 as a result of you contracting it in the course of your employment.
