

Remote Hearing Specialist: Contract

With the adversity we've all faced in 2020, we have found a positive opportunity. The future of Audiology is here and you could be a part of it!

Harnessing our cutting edge technology and off the back of a highly successful, trailblazing pilot, we are continuing to expand our pioneering Remote Hearing Health team to New Zealand. You'll be based anywhere in New Zealand and supported with the latest technology, impacting our customers lives in a very real and measurable way, from afar. These opportunities are initially available as a 3 month contract.

To align with this opportunity, you'll be excited to be at the forefront of audiology technology and eager to work with us to drive this entirely new channel for our business and customers. You will use your expertise, knowledge and resourcefulness to provide advice and solutions to customers, who are geographically distanced from you, using the latest products available anywhere in the world. You will work independently with access to a network of experienced clinicians and will work in partnership with the broader team at bloom.

You must be a NZAS registered, fully qualified Audiologist. With proven experience in consulting with customers and making recommendations to support the right hearing outcome for them. We are looking for someone to display strong interpersonal skills, which is paramount in communicating via a Video platform and equally to be comfortable working toward commercial measures.

To be considered for these exciting opportunities, please submit your application with cover letter to talent@bloomhearing.com.au or contact Sarah Piper, Talent Acquisition Manager for more information - 03 9411 2999
